SLANDERS HAGUE MEETING

English Delegate Calls Peace
Conference "Thieves' Supper"—Goes Without Offering Resistance and Thus Avoids Arrest and Imprisonment—Is Looked Upon as a Martyr.

Stuttgart, Aug. 22.—At yesterday's meeting of the International Socialist Congress, an English delegate named Quelch referred to the peace conference at The Hague as "a thieves' supper," at which the governments were arranging how to carry on murder and exploitation all over the world as cheaply as possible. To-day Quelch was ordered out of town.

This elicited laughter and cheers from the delegates, but when the government of Wurttemberg, in which state Stuttgart is, heard of Mr. Quelch's slur on the conference, it did not take a humorous view of it, but sent word to the congress that unless the expression "thieves' supper" was withdrawn and Quelch apologized he would be expelled from Wurttemberg.

At to-day's session of the congress Quelch refused to apologize, saying that his words had been misinterpreted by the translator who had put them into French. He said he had not called the diplomatists at The Hague murderers and thieves. He had spoken only of a thieves' supper, which, he said, was a common expression with English Socialists in describing a meeting of representatives of capitalistic interests. He was not responsible for the mistranslation of his words and stuck to what he had said. He had nothing to withdraw.

Quelch Ordered Out of Town.

The police this evening served notice on Quelch to leave Wurttemberg within three hours. The document ordering his expulsion stated that Quelch's explanation of his objectionable remarks was not satisfactory. Quelch decided to comply with the order without resistance, so as not to bring the conference in conflict with the authorities. If he defied the order he would be forcibly expelled, and if he afterward returned he would be liable to six weeks' imprisonment in Germany. He hoped some day they would all meet in free Germany. Quelch is editor of Justice, an English Socialist journal.

LAWSON MAKES NEW RECORD.

Turns Out One Vitrolite Sentence of 312 Words at Marshallfield Fair.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 22.—In introducing Gen. Charles W. Bartlett, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, at the Marshallfield Fair this afternoon, Thomas W. Lawson broke all records, when he delivered himself of a vitrolite sentence of 312 words. It was as follows:

"In these new-fangled days of mighty dollar values; these days of dollar giants and giant dollar killers; these days when men speak of their wallets as once they spoke of the Bible; in these days when the very air is gluttenous to suffocation with money and its slimy fruits; when men talk in millions as they formerly talked in shillings when one neighbor hails him in the morning with surprise at his being out of jail and bids him good night with a fervent prayer that the moral tone of the American people has been stilted to a standard where graft, bribery, and perjury are looked upon as necessary adjuncts to civilization; in these days when one of the great political parties in this grand old State is openly and unblushingly talking of taking for its standard bearer the blue ribbon winner at all the bribery bazaar and legislative corruption fests of the last quarter of a century; a man who has made the world famous throughout the world as the American community where the people's law-makers are bought and sold like fish and sausages at the markets and wharves in these days, when the very mention of the new-made millions causes a sickening aroma to the nostrils of honest men and the name of a new-made millionaire brings a picture of honest wives being traded for stake harlots to the applause of dollar royalty; in these days of money madness and frenzied mania—It warms the cockles of one's heart to know that there are yet people, whole communities where the stench of modern plutocracy has not yet penetrated; whole communities where the men and the women and the children live as their ancestors lived, proud of their toil-hardened hands, of their simple speeches, and plain attire, proud of their unvarnished ways, of their honest, trick-made dollars, proud of their simple faith in God and humanity."

BIGGEST AUTO IN CHICAGO.

Windy City Police Will Ride in Monster Vehicle.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—The city of Chicago is building an automobile which, it is promised, will be to other automobiles what the English battle ship Dreadnought is to other naval vessels. It is on account of the automobile's size that the city is doing the work itself, as special patterns had to be made for it.

The machine is to be used as a police patrol wagon. It is to be of steel body, 20-horsepower, and large enough to carry eighteen policemen and the chauffeur.

The use expected to be made of the vehicle is to carry a good-sized squad of policemen to any point where there is more serious trouble than the men immediately available can handle. It will be able to go much faster than the present patrol wagons and carry more men.

ITEMS FROM ABROAD.

Wilhelmshöhe, Germany, Aug. 22.—Empress Victoria Augusta is confined to her bed as the result of an accident. The empress was walking in the garden, when she stepped on a wet ground and fell, breaking a blood vessel in her leg.

Budapest, Hungary, Aug. 22.—A bloody encounter between peasants and Hungarians resulted in scores of casualties, has occurred in the province of Herzegovina. Many houses were plundered by soldiers.

Montreal, Canada, Aug. 22.—Gen. de Negrier, of Paris, for many years the commander of the troops in Algeria and renowned globe trotter, was robbed of his money and all his papers by a pickpocket to-day.

Manila, Aug. 22.—An organized crusade has been instituted by Americans against the display of Katipunan or insurrectionary emblems which have been flaunted with the greatest insolence into the faces of American officials and citizens alike in the last few weeks.

GETS $400 FROM AGED MAN.

Arrested Girl Insists Richey Gave Her Money.

St. Louis, Aug. 22.—Mrs. Maud Garrett, aged twenty-eight years, and pretty of Springfield, Ill., was arrested while attempting to draw her $400 deposit from the Merchants' National Bank here to-day, upon telegraphic request from the chief of police of Springfield, Ill., who stated she was wanted there on the charge of obtaining $100 from John Richey, a speculator, aged sixty-eight years, under false pretenses.

She denies his charge. She alleges that Richey had bought her anything she asked for, and asked her to get a divorce and elope with him. He deposited the $400 in the bank, she declares, telling her to do as she pleased with it. She finally told her husband of Richey's attention, and he suggested they come here and start a boarding-house. Her husband was arrested with her, but was released.

She will return to Springfield without a requisition.

DISSIPATES BIG SENSATION.

Coroner Says Human Fragments in River Do Not Spell Murder.

New York, Aug. 22.—Floating in the waters of the North River at the foot of Bloomsfield street, old Greenwich village, a portion of a woman's body was found at 9:15 o'clock this morning.

The police thought they might have another Guldensuppe mystery on their hands. Just as soon as they got wind of the find a squad of detectives was sent out from the Charles street station to question everybody along the water front who might throw any light on the matter. After Coroner's Physician Weston had made a careful examination he said there had been no murder. The parts found, he said, came from a surgeon's operating room.

WILHELM CAPTURES NEWPORT

Guns Welcome Him with Salutes;
Society with Open Arms.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 22.—Prince Wilhelm of Sweden, who is to spend the remainder of the week in Newport, arrived this morning on the Swedish cruiser Flygla, his arrival being announced by the firing of the national salute from the cruiser; answered by Fort Adams. The prince later saluted the flag of Rear Admiral John P. Merrill, at the training station, this being answered by the guns of the station.

During his stay the prince will be royally entertained by the members of the Newport summer colony, including a round of dinners, luncheons, and dances given by Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. Ogden Mills, Mrs. Richard Gambrell, Mrs. Edward J. Berwind, and Mrs. George Peabody Wetmore.

The first event of the official programme of entertaining began this evening, when Mrs. Fish gave a dinner for 120 guests in honor of the prince, this being followed by a dance given by Mrs. Edward J. Berwind. Many notable persons were included among the guests, and the functions were the largest that have yet been given in the summer colony this season. During the afternoon the prince sent one of his staff to pay his respects to the commanding officers of the various army and naval stations at Newport, which visits were later returned.

To-morrow the prince will pay a visit to the Newport naval stations, and will be entertained at luncheon by Mrs. George Peabody Wetmore, and at dinner in the evening by Mrs. Ogden Mills.

that there is a difference between what Mr. Bryan thinks and what the Democratic party thinks, but everybody knows that Mr. Bryan is to be the next candidate for the Presidency, that Mr. Bryan is controlling in the Democratic party, and that what he thinks makes up the real platform of the party.

"Now, I know the Democrats of the South—many of them—have no sympathy whatever with the principles that actuate Mr. Bryan, and say to them, as courageous men who can look straight into the eyes of the face, are they going to permit themselves to be led on the tail of the wagon, pursuing a course with which they have no sympathy, merely because of the incertainties of the future and the ghost of a former issue? They have an opportunity in the present election to make an effective declaration of independence.

"The Democratic party is hopelessly divided by arbitrary conduct of an iron machine, and the time is ripe for a change."

BURTON AND HERRICK CONFER

Discuss Ways and Means of Delivering Ohio to Taft in 1908.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 22.—Back from a long absence from Cleveland and Ohio, Congressman Burton to-day conferred with former Gov. Herrick. Ways and means of delivering Ohio solid to Taft in 1908 were discussed. Neither Mr. Burton nor Gov. Herrick was inclined to be communicative regarding their interview. Mr. Burton spoke more freely, however, regarding Senator Foraker's criticism of the War Secretary and of himself.

Congressman Burton said he would reply to Foraker when he has had a chance to read the Georgetown speech in full and learn in detail what charges the Senator made against the River and Harbor Commission, and the general accusation that it neglected the Ohio River.

KILLS SLEEPING HUSBAND.

Bride, After Being Struck, Broods
Over Insult and Uses Shotgun.

Eufaula, Ala., Aug. 22.—Enraged because her husband was harsh to her, Mrs. Levy Gade, a bride of two months, waited until he was asleep, and then blew his head off with a shotgun. The tragedy occurred about 11 o'clock.

According to his wife's story, he returned about 11 o'clock and began to scold her, finally striking her. He then lay down and went to sleep. Mrs. Gade seemed to hear a voice ordering her to kill the man who would strike his bride. Then she got the gun and shot off his head. Mrs. Gade has not been arrested.

Pennsylvania Parents Demand Aid in Finding Son's Body.

Pittsburg, Aug. 22.—The aged parents of J. B. Miskell, a West Pennsylvania railroad fireman, who was killed in a wreck in the flood of March 14 last, to-day made formal demand on Governor Armstrong, of Allegheny County, that President James McCrea, of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, be summoned by the governor personally to search for the body of their son, who went to death in Deer Creek.

The parents have spent all their little fortune and much time on the stream searching for the body of their only son.

Strangers in Washington will find desirable rooming and boarding houses advertised in The Herald.

Believes Revision of Thrift Best Means of Relieving Financial Troubles—Points Out Other Rea-

and Earthquake Removed Wealth.

Bar Harbor, Me., Aug. 22.—That the national administration is in no way responsible for the financial disturbances is the opinion of Jacob H. Schiff, of the International Banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who is staying here. Expressing his views on the financial situation, Mr. Schiff said:

"To blame the Federal administration for the difficulties in which we find ourselves is both thoughtless and unjust. Even if the excesses which the great prosperity of recent years had in its wake had been permitted to continue unchecked, before long a situation would have developed probably far more difficult and serious than the crisis through which we are now passing.

"In the first instance it is a result of the tremendous railroad, industrial, and commercial development of the last ten years, and which has brought about capital requirements largely in excess of the ability of the country to supply. Europe, finding itself in a similar position to the United States, has been unable to extend us any considerable credit or to place at our disposal surplus funds, such as has been its wont to invest so largely in American securities in times of depression.

"Moreover, it has been to a great extent overlooked that the Russo-Japanese war and the San Francisco earthquake have destroyed an enormous amount of wealth, which sooner or later had to make itself felt. Nor has the fact that both Japan and China have now entered into competition for the surplus capital of the world been given sufficient attention.

"No other remedy for this state of affairs appears to be possible than at least a temporary reduction in our activities until the country's capital and credit facilities again have reached a point sufficient for its volume of business.

"I believe railroad managers in general have already recognized the necessity for curtailment, but manufacturers and merchants appear to be behind in this. The sooner these two recognize the imprudence of continuing at the present pace the more certain will they be to save themselves from the dire consequences of the present state of affairs.

"Roosevelt Not to Blame.

"President Roosevelt is certainly not to blame for the many abuses in corporate management which have developed and which he has had the courage to lay bare. At present, it is true, we have to suffer in consequence of the President's uncompromising attitude, but posterity is certain to profit by it.

"It is regrettable, however, that no effort has thus far been made on the part of the government to reach an understanding with the corporations through which the necessity for these harassing prosecutions may cease. The abuses and illegal acts which it is now sought to punish were committed mostly in years gone by and resulted as much from business practices which, at the time, were very general as from the intention to do wrong.

"To inflict extreme punishment now for wrong practices of two to five years ago looks too much like originating in other motives than in the desire to safeguard the future, which, of course, we probably are, the real purpose.

"Cess Prosecutions.

"It would no doubt tend toward a re-establishment of better conditions if prosecutions were to cease, with the understanding that violations of the law on the part of corporations will hereafter be relentlessly punished, both as far as the corporation and its executive officers are concerned; that established concerns which for years have carried on their business un molested shall not now be sought to be dissolved, but that hereafter no incorporation will be permitted which in the opinion of the Department of Justice would even tend toward a restraint of trade and commerce.

"Nothing, however, will so thoroughly prevent the building up of great monopolies and the accumulation of the vast fortunes, the existence of which is at the bottom of the prevailing social unrest, as a sound and sensible revision of the tariff.

It is right that American industry and the American workman be protected against undue foreign competition, but it cannot be right to compel the American consumer to pay a vast profit to the manufacturer where the latter under a much lower tariff would be able to maintain himself. Herein lies the principal remedy which needs to be applied if the causes which have brought about present conditions are to be permanently eradicated."

NEW YORK IN NEED OF CASH.

Sinking Fund Commission Must Offer Bigger Interest for Loan.

New York, Aug. 22.—The failure of Comptroller Metz, of this city, to sell about $100,000 of New York City bonds at 4 per cent interest caused the sinking fund commissioners to increase the rate of interest on these and all other corporate stocks and bonds of New York City except revenue bonds, to 4 1/2 per cent.

The city offered $15,000,000 of bonds at auction several years ago, but received bids for only about $2,000,000. Efforts were then made to sell the remainder by individual sales, but this failed when contractors owned by the city took the bonds at par and resold them at a discount.

The city is in great need of money for the payment particularly of contractors now at work on public improvements, and in order that there should be no shutting down of the work, another sale of corporate stock will have to be advertised speedily.

SIBERIAN TROOPS IN REVOLT.

Commanding General Tells Czar
Whole Corps Will Revolt.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 22.—Following a serious outbreak of soldiers along the Manchurian border, the latest of a number of mutinies, Gen. Pantaleef to-day filed with the Czar a special report declaring that the Siberian troops are completely out of hand. In the event of the general revolt, the general declares, the soldiers will without doubt side with the revolutionists.

In the latest outbreak 400 mutineers barricaded themselves in their barracks and held at bay all Tuesday night a battalion of sharpshooters detailed to capture them. They inflicted heavy losses on the sharpshooters, while eighteen mutineers were killed and thirty-five wounded.

The outbreak followed an attempt by the colonel of the mutineers' regiment to break up a revolutionary meeting held in the fields, which the soldiers attended. They declined to obey the colonel's orders. Fighting continued all night, and in the morning the surviving mutineers surrendered because their ammunition had been exhausted.

They were imprisoned, but last night the members of the regiment began to open the jail, freed their comrades, and the whole party escaped across the border in Chinese territory.

CLOTHIER WILL NOT PLAY

Champion Unable to Defend National Tennis Title.

Sixteen of the Original 115 Entries
Remain in Tournament on the Courts at Newport.

Newport, Aug. 22.—After the eliminating matches of the third day of the National Lawn Tennis Championship had been completed this afternoon, only sixteen of the 115 entries remained. As the field stands, it is pretty evenly balanced between the top class players and the youngsters.

Champion Clothier found it necessary to visit the hospital to-day, where his injured leg received attention, and he was told that he must refrain from all thought of athletic competition or he would become a cripple. This throws the burden of the winning the title for this year upon one of the survivors now on the list.

As the card stood at the beginning of the day, it was a round of competitions between the veterans and those of less experience. The most important of these proved the chief feature on the championship stretch of turf before the grand stand, and resulted in William A. Larned making a runaway win from Irving C. Wright in three straight sets.

Clarence Hobart and Frederick G. Anderson also won in the upper half with Larned.

In the lower half there still remain the best of the younger aspirants, including Richard H. Palmer, who so sensationally outplayed Karl H. Behr, the internationalist, on the opening day; Nathaniel W. Niles, of Harvard, and Robert Le Roy, of Columbia.

Besides its being the starred match of the day, considerable interest was attached to Larned's meeting with Irving Wright because of the fact that the veteran had not been at his best in several of his recent matches. There was a great turning out of the fashionable gallery.

Despite the fact that the clouds threatened rain, the match was played to the end, once the pair got started, and from the outset he never wavered in playing rings around his young opponent. Overhead Larned was invincible. His performance was frequently applauded. The show of Scotland, on the part of Larned sent his stock up as the probable winner of the tourney in no uncertain way. As matters now stand his strongest opponent in his half of the draw is Clarence Hobart, his old-time rival.

COMMISSION RETURNING.

Employers Not Prepared for Walk-

New York, Aug. 22.—All of the union teamsters in the employ of the wholesale butchers and packers in Manhattan went on a strike at 4 o'clock this afternoon, many of them leaving loaded wagons in the streets.

The walk-out tied up the late afternoon delivery service of all the big companies, but the packers expect to have the wagons fully manned to-morrow morning.

There is a chance, however, that the small stock butchers, the beef cutters, and the luggers will go out in sympathy, and in that event the situation would become serious for New York meat consumers. There are only 500 of the striking teamsters, but they comprise practically the entire force in the employ of the big wholesalers. They deliver the meat from the packing houses and abattoirs along
